The Mobius Loop

This symbol is called a 'mobius loop' and it is put on recycled products: things that used to be something else. The symbol shows the three parts of recycling: collecting material, turning it into something else, and selling it. People used to think that the only recycled product we could buy was paper, but that has changed entirely. In the past, recycled products often used to cost more, but this is no longer true – the more we buy, the cheaper recycled products get. And in the past people used to think recycled products weren't as good as products made from 'new' materials. Perhaps that used to be true, but it isn't now. So next time you go shopping, look for the mobius loop and come home with a bag which used to be a cap, or a mouse mat which used to be a car tyre!

- 1 You can find the mobius loop on products made from recycled materials.
- 2 Recycled products used to be more expensive than new products.
- 3 All recycled products are made of paper.
- 4 Recycled products are still not as good as those made from new materials.
- 5 It is not possible to recycle car tyres.
